

Good Harbor Financial Group, LLC

I am looking for someone for my one person office who is self motivated and likes challenges. This position will consist of online research with emphasis on charitable organizations and developing a database of contacts. I have worked in a large firm, with a partner in a small firm, and now on my own. The candidate for this opportunity will not get pigeon-holed into one small department, but will be exposed to everything. I need a person who knows how to be professional on the phone and in person, knows how to enjoy life, and is eager to learn.. Communications will be with my wholesalers and my broker/dealer with respect to insurance, benefits, and investments. Work hours could be as little as 5 hours a week and many as 16-20 hours a week depending on the qualifications, business in process, and the willingness to learn. Work hours could be onsite or offsite, at my home office, at client locations, or on your computer at your home.

I have been in this business for 23 years and this would be an exceptional learning opportunity for any person who wishes to learn about Financial Planning and about Charitable Gifting and is driven to be in the growing charitable community for their career.

Qualifications: Ability to work independently; communicate well, be analytical, think on your feet, be computer-proficient, have good writing skills, and phone skills....be both left and right brained.
